

Fish at school

I live in Montana where there are no water fish but throughout the process of doing my school I have learned some interesting things about them like they are called water fish because of their long dorsal fin down their back, similar to the needles we have at home in Montana. Mountain fish are usually found in shallow water along the coast, and are considered lighter than our mountain trout species. It is very important to keep pollution in the oceans, seas and fresh water so we can enjoy these game fish.
