

In my drawing, I captured both a male and a female red-winged blackbird, surrounded by numerous baby birds. The scene features vibrant trees and blooming flowers, creating a true bird family paradise!

However, there's an important matter at hand – they need our help. These incredible birds inhabit wet, marshy parks, but unfortunately, these areas are dwindling due to human construction. It's akin to losing your cozy home and favorite playground!

Finding food is another challenge. Some farmers use substances harmful to the bird's diet, like bugs and seeds. It's comparable to someone taking away your snacks when you're really hungry.

I firmly believe that we can make a difference! Let's be mindful not to overcrowd their habitats and encourage farmers to consider the well-being of the bugs. We can also spread the word about how extraordinary these birds are!

With our assistance, the red-winged blackbirds can enjoy secure homes, an abundance of food, and those magnificent, expansive wings to soar high in the sky. Woody for teamwork!
